

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Antje Missbach is a research fellow at the Department of Anthropology at Monash University in Melbourne. Living in Indonesia as a teenager sparked an ongoing interest in socio-political developments in Indonesia. She studied Southeast Asian studies and anthropology at Humboldt University in Berlin and obtained a PhD from the Australian National University in Canberra for a thesis about the long-distance politics of the Acehnese diaspora. Before taking up the McKenzie Postdoctoral Fellowship at the University of Melbourne, which allowed her to engage intensively with her research subjects in Indonesia, she taught at universities in Berlin and Heidelberg. Her research has been supported by the Australian Research Council, Fritz-Thyssen-Stiftung and the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD). Her current research interests include transit migration, diaspora politics, as well as border and mobility studies.