A Modern History of SOUTH EAST ASIA
Decolonization, Nationalism and Separatism
by Clive J. Christie

Christie's history of the region considers the overall decolonization of Southeast Asia, and shows how, despite the great diversity of the region, issues of identity, ethnicity, religion and "loyalism" affected the newly-formed nation-states in remarkably similar ways.

It covers the recent history of all the states of Southeast Asia, and charts the problems faced by the nations of the region as the colonial powers departed, and the strategies for survival and growth which they adopted.

Contemporary Southeast Asia is a journal that specializes in the politics, international relations and security-related issues of Southeast Asia and its wider geopolitical environment. Apart from serving as a reliable and up-to-date source of information on various events and trends in regional politics, international relations and security questions that affect Southeast Asia, CSEA also publishes the results of original research on these subjects by both scholars and other interested persons.
