

NOTE ON THE AUTHOR

Dr Daniel Novotny is an Endeavour Research Fellow at the Monash European and EU Centre, Monash University in Melbourne. He specializes in international relations of Southeast Asia, Asian elite perceptions and foreign policy — theory and practice, security and contemporary geopolitical developments in the Asia-Pacific, and EU’s foreign policy strategy in Asia. In 1998–2000, he was an aide in the Political Department of The Office of the President of the Czech Republic. Since writing his Ph.D. at the University of New South Wales, Sydney, he coordinated a special research project on the “EU-India relations” for the Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He has also been affiliated with the Prague-based think-tank Association for International Affairs and as a Visiting Research Fellow with the Singapore-based RSIS and ISEAS institutes and The Habibie Centre in Jakarta. Apart from his academic endeavours, he has produced several dozens of short documentaries covering the Asia-Pacific region as an associate freelance correspondent for The Czech Television (ČT). He is married with two children.
