THE INDONESIAN PLYWOOD INDUSTRY

The Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS) was established as an autonomous organization in 1968. It is a regional research centre for scholars and other specialists concerned with modern Southeast Asia, particularly the many-faceted problems of stability and security, economic development, and political and social change.

The Institute's research programmes are the Regional Economic Studies Programme (RES), Regional Strategic and Political Studies Programme (RSPS), Regional Social and Cultural Studies Programme (RSCS), and the Indochina Programme (ICP).

The Institute is governed by a twenty-two-member Board of Trustees comprising nominees from the Singapore Government, the National University of Singapore, the various Chambers of Commerce, and professional and civic organizations. A ten-man Executive Committee oversees day-to-day operations; it is chaired by the Director, the Institute's chief academic and administrative officer.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This study originated when the author was working for a British Overseas Development Assistance Project in Indonesia. Much of the work was done while he was on a Research Fellowship at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, Singapore, in 1994. The assistance of the Institute's staff is gratefully acknowledged.

I am also grateful to George H. Croy of Safan Publications, Timo Kurikka of Raute Ltd, R. Kampur and H. Gloede of Siempelkamp Gmbh and Co, and Dr G. Wallin of Sunds Defibrator, all of Singapore, for their considerable help and encouragement. Professor Motoaki Okuma of the Department of Forest Products, University of Tokyo, provided most useful data. Last but not least, the tolerance and good nature of Professor Tom Nguyen of Griffith University, Queensland, and Professor To Duy Hop of the National Centre for Social Sciences of Vietnam in putting up with such a difficult room-mate is highly appreciated.
