

Reproduced from Indonesia's Financial Liberalization: An Empirical Analysis of 1981-88 Panel Data by Miranda S. Goeltom (Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 1995). This version was obtained electronically direct from the publisher on condition that copyright is not infringed. No part of this publication may be reproduced without the prior permission of the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies. Individual articles are available at < <http://bookshop.iseas.edu.sg> >

THE AUTHOR

Miranda S. Goeltom has been a lecturer at the Faculty of Economics, University of Indonesia, since 1973, and for the last eighteen years has been a research associate at the Institute for Economic and Social Research (LPEM-FEUI), Jakarta. She is also Secretary of the Economics Program at the Graduate School of the University of Indonesia, where she teaches advanced macro-economics and econometrics. In 1993 she was appointed Deputy Assistant Minister for the Co-ordinating Ministry for Economy, Finance and Development Supervision of the Republic of Indonesia. She specializes in monetary economics, development economics, and econometrics. She has been a consultant for the World Bank and other international organizations, and her articles have been published in numerous domestic and international journals.