THE AUTHOR

Dr Trinidad Osteria is a Fellow of the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS). She has been the recipient of research grants from Ford Foundation and the International Development Research Centre to undertake studies on the health situation of the urban poor and the governments' response to the health challenges of urbanization in the ASEAN region. She has recently completed a study on the involvement of women in health development in six countries in Asia and the Pacific. Dr Osteria obtained her doctorate in demography at Johns Hopkins University (1971) and was a Visiting Scientist in the Harvard-MIT International Nutrition Planning Program (1981-82). Prior to joining ISEAS in 1986 she was the Director of the Research Center of De La Salle University in Manila, Philippines.
