The Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS) was established as an autonomous organization in 1968. It is a regional centre dedicated to the study of socio-political, security and economic trends and developments in Southeast Asia and its wider geostrategic and economic environment. The Institute's research programmes are the Regional Economic Studies (RES, including ASEAN and APEC), Regional Strategic and Political Studies (RSPS), and Regional Social and Cultural Studies (RSCS).

ISEAS Publishing, an established academic press, has issued more than 2,000 books and journals. It is the largest scholarly publisher of research about Southeast Asia from within the region. ISEAS Publishing works with many other academic and trade publishers and distributors to disseminate important research and analyses from and about Southeast Asia to the rest of the world.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This volume is based, partly, on proceedings of an international conference on “Religion in Southeast Asian Politics: Resistance, Negotiation and Transcendence”, held on 11–12 December 2008 at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, and grateful acknowledgement is due to the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung for generous funding of the conference and Cornell University’s Southeast Asia Program for co-sponsorship.

Chapter 9 was first published as “Religious Freedom in Indonesia: The Case of the Ahmadiyah”, ISEAS Working Paper, Politics and Security Series No. 2 (2011).

An earlier version of Chapter 13 was published as “The Dominant Perspective on Terrorism and Its Implication for Social Cohesion: The Case of Singapore”, The Copenhagen Journal of Asian Studies 27, no. 2 (2009): 109–28.
