

Contributors

Anantha Raman Govindasamy is a senior lecturer in politics at the Centre for Promotion of Knowledge and Language Learning, Universiti Malaysia Sabah. He holds a PhD in Politics from the School of Political and International Studies, Flinders University. He researches, lectures and writes on the theme of 'politics, economics and culture' with an empirical focus on Malaysia. His most recent major publications are 'The Islamisation of Malaysia: Religious Nationalism in the Service of Ethnonationalism', Australian Journal of International Affairs, 2010, co-authored with Michael D. Barr, and 'Indian and Rural Displacement: Exclusion from Region Building in Malaysia', Asian Journal of Political Science, 2010.

Che Hamdan Che Mohd Razali is a Senior Lecturer in the Faculty of Administrative Science and Policy Studies, Universiti Teknologi MARA, Terengganu. He is now doing his PhD in Political Philosophy at the School of Distance Education, Universiti Sains Malaysia. His primary research interests are civil society, Islamic movements and elections.

Marcus Cheng graduated with a Bachelor of Actuarial Studies (Hon.) from the Australian National University. He has a keen interest in performing arts. He grabbed the opportunity to further his understanding of humanity through involvement in this project.

Chiok Phaik Fern serves as Lecturer and Deputy Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Science at Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman. Currently, she is on study leave to complete her PhD studies at Universiti Sains Malaysia. Besides this project and her PhD research on New Villages in the Kinta Valley, she is also researching the role of guilds and associations at Kampar, Perak. She has presented and published several conference papers, for instance on recent by-elections in Malaysia after GE12 and on government funding to Chinese-type schools in Malaysia.

Choong Pui Yee is Senior Analyst at the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), Nanyang Technological University. Her research interests include religious mobilisation, social movement studies and identity politics. She is the co-author of Negotiating Religious Freedom: Christianity in Muslim-Majority Malaysia (Peace and Policy, 2012).

Goh Teck Fann (Master of Science in Asia Pacific Studies, Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University) is a Lecturer in the Faculty of Arts and Social Science at Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman, Malaysia. Her research interests include audience reception, popular culture and the use of media in everyday life.

Haijon Gunggut holds a PhD in Contemporary History. He has a wide area of interests including politics and policy studies, particularly relating to natural resources conservation and environmental protection. He currently teaches at Universiti Teknologi MARA Sabah.

Ho Yi Jian is a Project Coordinator in the International Institute for Strategic Studies (Asia), and a graduate in Political Science from the National University of Singapore. While Malaysia remains home, he aims to live in most, if not all, of the ASEAN countries. He has published on Malaysian migration to Singapore (2011) and further research on Southeast Asia is always on the books.

Reema B. Jagtiani is a Research Associate at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS) and Assistant Editor of the ISEAS Journal of Southeast Asian Economies (JSEAE). She recently completed her Master of Arts in Human Rights Law at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS). Her research interests include politics and constitutionalism in Malaysia.

Koh Chien Aun is currently a student at the University of Malaya, pursuing a Masters in History. His current research interests are in Malaysian identity politics and Malaysian history.

Lai Yew Meng is Senior Lecturer in Politics and International Relations at the Centre for the Promotion of Knowledge and Language Learning (CPKLL), Universiti Malaysia Sabah. He is also the Deputy Director of the Centre for Industry Relations at the university. Lai received his doctorate from the Department of Politics and International Studies, University of Warwick in 2009. He was formerly attached to the Japan Institute of International Affairs (JIIA) as a Visiting Research Fellow (2003–2004), and at the Keio Institute of East Asian Studies as Junior Visiting Scholar (2007). His research interests include Malaysian politics, Japanese and Chinese foreign policy and East Asian security. He is the co-editor of Security Studies: A Reader (Routledge, 2011) with Christopher W. Hughes, and the author of Nationalism and Power Politics in Japan's Relations with China: A Neoclassical Realist Interpretation (Routledge, 2013).

Nazreen Mohamad is a student of International Relations at the University of Nottingham Malaysia campus. He has had several experiences as a research assistant in projects revolving around media and politics.

Ngu Ik Tien recently completed her PhD in Political Science at the Universiti Sains Malaysia and currently works as a post-doctoral research fellow at the University of Malaya. Her doctoral thesis is on 'Maintaining Domination: State Power and Local Politics in Sibul, Sarawak'. Her areas of interests include Sarawak politics, Malaysian Christianity and civil society in Malaysia.

Arnold Puyok, PhD in Political Science, is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Politics and International Relations, Faculty of Social Sciences, Universiti Malaysia Sarawak. Dr Puyok's areas of expertise are ethnic politics, the politics of state and federal relations, electoral politics and politics and society. Dr Puyok's works on contemporary Malaysian politics, especially Sabah and Sarawak, have been published in Asian Journal of Political Science, Journal of Contemporary Southeast Asia, and Kajian Malaysia. Dr Puyok also regularly contributes to The Malaysian Insider, Malaysiakini and, recently, East Asia Forum.

Teo Sue Ann is an analyst in the Social and Political Science Section in the Penang Institute. Her research activities address a variety of sociological topics, with a primary focus on the areas of gender, racial and ethnic groups in Malaysia.

Tony Paridi Bagang, MA, is a lecturer at Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM) Sabah. His research interests include Kadazandusun politics, electoral competition, voting patterns and indigenous leadership.

Meredith L. Weiss is Associate Professor of Political Science at the University at Albany, State University of New York. She has held visiting fellowships or professorships in Australia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Singapore, as well as the US. Weiss is the author of Student Activism in Malaysia: Crucible, Mirror, Sideshow (Cornell SEAP/NUS, 2011) and Protest and Possibilities: Civil Society and Coalitions for Political Change in Malaysia (Stanford, 2006), as well as numerous journal articles and book chapters. She is also co-editor of Global Homophobia: States, Movements, and the Politics of Oppression (Illinois, 2013), Student Activism in Asia: Between Protest & Powerlessness (Minnesota, 2012), Political Violence in South and Southeast Asia: Critical Perspectives (UNU, 2010) and Social Movements in Malaysia: From Moral Communities to NGOs (RoutledgeCurzon, 2003). Her research addresses political mobilisation and contention, the politics of development, civil society, nationalism and ethnicity and electoral change in maritime Southeast Asia.

Wong Pui Yi is pursuing a PhD in Economics at the University of Malaya (UM). She recently completed her Masters of Economics, also with UM, during which time she worked briefly with the World Bank as a research assistant on a public expenditure review. Her research interests include political economy, rural development and environment.