

About the Author

Ye Htut was Visiting Senior Research Fellow at the ISEAS – Yusof Ishak Institute from 2016 to 2019. His research interest is on political developments in Myanmar.

He is a graduate of the Myanmar Defence Services Academy. He received his commission in 1981 and retired as Lieutenant Colonel from the Myanmar Army in 2005. He was transferred to the civil service and took up the post of Deputy Director General in the Ministry of Information. He served in the ministry as Director General (2009) and then as Deputy Minister (2012) before his appointment as the Presidential spokesperson and Union Minister.

He served as Presidential Spokesperson (2013–16) and Minister of Information (2014–16). In the latter capacity, and previously as Director General and Deputy Minister of Information, he participated in the liberalization of Myanmar's media laws and brought into that process international media assistance from the BBC, Deutsche Welle, the Asia-Pacific Institute for Broadcasting Development, Radio Free Asia and the Asia Foundation.

After Myanmar's most recent elections in 2015, he served as a member of the President's Transition Team assisting the incoming government of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy.

Ye Htut has written six books in Burmese, including Politics and the Media, Bush and His Decisions, The Press Council and Journalists' Ethics, Fall of NeoCon, and two collections of essays.
