ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Stephen C. Headley (1943) has held a post at the National Centre for Scientific Research (CNRS) in Paris since 1981, where he works on the social anthropology of the Javanese. For several years he was associated with a research centre founded by Louis Dumont (+1998) and continued by Daniel de Coppet (+2002). This centre had a special interest in those hybrid societies that were recently animated by traditional social cosmology, and which are not yet thoroughly individualistic, and thus presented unique possibilities for exploring questions about these three kinds of social morphology. Over the last ten years, he has published five volumes on mythology, Islam, and the anthropology of prayer in Indonesia:

- Forthcoming: Ebauche d'hommes et corps et sociétés inachevés, numéro spécial de la revue l'Homme, no. 174, textes réunis par Stephen C. Headley.
- 2000: From Cosmogony to Exorcism in a Javanese Genesis: The Spilt Seed. Oxford University Press, Oxford.
- 2000: Islamic Prayer across the Indian Ocean: Inside and Outside the Mosque, edited by Stephen C. Headley and David Parkin. Curzon Press, U.K.
- 1996: Vers une anthropologie de la prière: études ethnolinguistiques javanaises, textes réunis par Stephen C. Headley. Publications Universitaires de Provence, Aix-en-Provence.
- 1994: Anthropologie de la prière: rites oraux en Asie du Sud-Est. numéro spécial de la revue L'Homme, no. 132, vol. XXIV.4 (oct-déc 1994), textes réunis par Stephen C. Headley.

The common theme of these studies had been the hierarchy of Javanese values. Despite the introduction of individualism along with evaluative indifference during the twentieth century, Javanese values have not entirely disintegrated. The successive political crises in Indonesia in the second half of the twentieth century have in certain sense underlined the necessity for preserving these values which the promise of democracy at the beginning of that century seem to require abolishing.
