I. Overview

The literature about the European Union and the European integration is overwhelming. The Net gives access to an enormous amount of information.

It is recommended to start with “Gateway to the European Union”. This website gives current information and, with some effort almost, all information about the European Union, its institutions, and how it works can be unearthed.

A summary of EU legislation is available at: http://europa.eu/scadplus/scad_en.htm

An extremely good website for the researcher wishing to find works on the European Union is found at:

<http://www.sipa.columbia.edu/ece/Bibliography/20European/20Integration.pdf>

And for the researcher interested in the history of the European Union, plus current issues, the following websites can be recommended:
