

About the Author

Joyce Chapman Lebra received her B.A. and M.A. in Asian Studies from the University of Minnesota and her Ph.D. in Japanese History from Harvard/Radcliffe. She is the first woman Ph.D. holder in Japanese History in the U.S. She was Professor of Japanese History and Indian History at the University of Colorado until her retirement.

Professor Lebra received many awards, including an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from the University of Minnesota in 1996, two years Fulbright fellowship in Japan and one and a half years Fulbright fellowship in India. Other fellowships include a Japan Foundation fellowship, a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship, and fellowships from the American Association of University Women, Australian National University, and others. She is noted in Who's Who in America, Who's Who of American Women, and Who's Who in American Education. She has lectured widely at the University of Hawai'i, Oxford University, the London School of Economics, Tokyo University, Waseda University, Nagoya University, Hong Kong University, the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies in Singapore, the Netaji Research Bureau in Calcutta, Melbourne and Monash Universities, Macquarie University, Sydney University, Brisbane University, and Australian National University in Canberra. She delivered the Harmon Memorial Lecture at the U.S. Air Force Academy in 1991.

Professor Lebra has authored twelve previous books, including two historical novels, Durga's Sword and Sugar and Smoke. She led three research teams to Asia to research on women's roles in the workforce, each of which resulted in a book: Woman in Changing Japan, Chinese

Women in Southeast Asia, and Women and Work in India. Her other books include: Jungle Alliance: Japan and the Indian National Army, Japanese-trained Armies in Southeast Asia: Independence and Volunteer Forces in World War II, Okuma Shigenobu: Statesman of Meiji Japan, The Rani of Jhansi: A Study in Female Heroism in India, and Shaping Hawai'i: The Voices of Women. She also edited Japan's Greater East Asia Co-prosperity Sphere: Selected Readings and Documents. She has written chapters in three books and some fifty articles in scholarly journals.