

Contemporary Southeast Asia is an internationally refereed journal that specializes in the politics, international relations and security-related issues of Southeast Asia and its wider geostrategic environment. Apart from serving as a reliable and up-to-date source of information on various events and trends in regional politics, international relations and security questions that affect Southeast Asia, CSEA also publishes the results of original research on these subjects by both scholars and other interested persons.

The Editors invite submission of manuscripts on subjects within the field of domestic politics, strategic/security issues, political economy, regionalism and international affairs as they impinge on the Southeast Asian and the wider Asia-Pacific region. Manuscripts should be double-spaced and between 6,000–8,000 words (including endnotes and a 150-word abstract). Research Notes and Comments, which would include reports of research findings of shorter length, as well as reports of ongoing research projects, are also invited. Manuscripts should be in Word format and should be sent to the Editors electronically to the e-mail address below. Citations should be made in the author-date style, with full references, and endnotes where appropriate. Authors should include keywords. CSEA does not accept manuscripts that have already been published or are being considered for publication elsewhere. Manuscripts will be refereed by external readers.
